

Satellite Radio should be able to provide the same traffic and other local content information as required to meet the needs of their subscribers. The competitive edge of locally oriented radio stations is insured by the fact they are generally nationally owned - so big business to big business let the listeners decide, not bureaucrats!

Larry Foran